The Asian Society of International Law provides its members with information on the latest development in international law in the region and access to a larger community of international law professionals. Members receive:

- The AsianSIL monthly e-newsletter
- Subscription to Asian Journal of International Law
- Members’ discounts on the biennial conference registration

To join AsianSIL, visit www.asiansil.org or email asiansil-admin@nus.edu.sg

Past Presidents

OWADA HISASHI
Judge & Former President, International Court of Justice
President (2007 to 2009) & Honorary President, AsianSIL

XUE HANQIN
Judge, International Court of Justice
President (2009 to 2011) & Advisory Council Member, AsianSIL

VENKATESWARA SUBRAMANIAN MANI
Professor & Director of School of Law and Governance, Jaipur National University
President (2011 to 2013), AsianSIL

SURAKIART SATHIRATHAI
President (2013 to 2015), Asian Society of International Law
Chairman, Asian Peace and Reconciliation Council (APRC)

Past Members

The Society’s establishment was in response to the need of the international lawyers in Asia for a region-wide forum for intellectual interaction on the important issues of peace and security, international trade and investment, human rights, environment and many other fields of international activities. This will enable the international lawyers of the region to contribute to the development of international law on a global basis and to consolidate the role of law at a time when Asia has risen as an active and influential global player.

Asia is a stunningly colourful showcase of diversity of ancient cultures, languages, political systems, and levels of development and offers diverse models of governance. With the many international law issues confronting this continent, the plate of the Asian Society of International Law is already overflowing, much before it was formally launched.
About the Society

The Asian Society of International Law (AsianSIL) is an international, non-partisan, non-profit, and non-governmental organization with the following objectives:

1. To promote research, education and practice of international law
2. To foster and encourage Asian perspectives of international law
3. To promote awareness of and respect for international law

Launched in 2007, AsianSIL is still a young organization. As such, its priority at this stage is to grow and mature. The Society should be a centre with capacities for the next two years. It is a great privilege to work with them to promote international law in Asia.

I am honoured to serve as the fifth President of the Asian Society of International Law for the next two years. I thank all my predecessors for their invaluable contributions, which have empowered our fledgling organization to stand on its own feet. I therefore kindly ask for your support and creativity in this new phase in the life of the Society. I would also greatly appreciate it if you could share your ideas and insights about how to move our young Society forward. I thank you all for your trust and confidence and look forward to working closely with you for the next two years!

PAIK Jin-Hyun
President, Asian Society of International Law
National University of Singapore Faculty of Law

The Journal is produced for the Asian Society of International Law by the National University of Singapore Faculty of Law.

The Asian Journal of International Law (AsianJIL) publishes peer-reviewed, original articles in all fields of public and private international law. The regional focus of the Journal is broadly conceived. Some articles may focus on particular topics or events in one or more Asian states or international institutions, while others may be of more general interest. Still others will be of more general interest to scholars, practitioners, and others interested in issues bearing on issues of global concern. Still others will be of more general interest to scholars, practitioners, and others interested in issues bearing on Asia in the field of international law.

The Journal is published in English as a matter of practical convenience rather than political endorsement. English language reviews of books in other languages are particularly welcomed. The Asian Journal of International Law is the official journal of the Asian Society of International Law.

The Sixth Biennial Conference will take place in Seoul in 2017.

As President, I will do my best to ensure that our Society grows in its membership, social activities and functions in its intellectual reputation and influence in the field of international law. The objective of this new phase is essentially on its members. I therefore kindly ask for your support and creativity in this new phase in the life of the Society. I would also greatly appreciate it if you could share your ideas and insights about how to move our young Society forward. I thank you all for your trust and confidence and look forward to working closely with you for the next two years!

As such, its priority at this stage is to grow and mature. The Society should be a centre with capacities for the next two years. It is a great privilege to work with them to promote international law in Asia.

I am honoured to serve as the fifth President of the Asian Society of International Law for the next two years. I thank all my predecessors for their invaluable contributions, which have empowered our fledgling organization to stand on its own feet. I therefore kindly ask for your support and creativity in this new phase in the life of the Society. I would also greatly appreciate it if you could share your ideas and insights about how to move our young Society forward. I thank you all for your trust and confidence and look forward to working closely with you for the next two years!

PAIK Jin-Hyun
President, Asian Society of International Law
National University of Singapore Faculty of Law